

WOMEN WILL REMIND CONGRESS OF 'VOTES'

Suffragists to Hold Convention in Washington as Session Opens.

EXPECT MANY NOTABLES

Among Five Hundred Delegates Will Be Social and Professional Leaders.

The national woman suffrage convention in Washington during the first week in December will be notable as a gathering of prominent women from social, professional and suffrage circles.

The convention will meet in the opening week of the session of Congress to remind Congress that a suffrage amendment is pending.

The suffragists hope that many Congressmen may find time to attend sessions of the convention, at which the wives and daughters of some of them will take an active part.

Delegates from Illinois are to have a special victory celebration. The speakers at this celebration will be Mrs. Catherine Vaughn McCullough, who framed the suffrage amendment, Mrs. Ella Stewart and the four members of the so-called suffrage lobby, Mrs. Grace Wilbur Trout, president of the Illinois Suffrage Association; Mrs. Antoinette Funk, Mrs. Medill McCormick, whose husband is one of the owners of the Chicago Tribune, and Mrs. Sherman Booth.

Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen, who has been mentioned for Chief of Police in Chicago, will have charge of the educational sessions of the convention.

Judge Olsen will tell of the establishment of the Court of Domestic Relations in Chicago; Judge Mack will describe the Chicago Juvenile Court, which has served as a model for juvenile courts in all countries; and the last Administration, and George R. Sheldon. He has been out on the golf links daily.

W. F. Southard of New York ushered in the season of game dinners with one at Oak Grove in honor of Mrs. William Nelson Belouze of Chicago. There have been plenty of birds to shoot. Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Phelps after a day's shooting had their own game for dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Melville E. Ingalls, Jr., have been putting in much time in the saddle, taking frequent rides over Coles Mountain. J. Amory Haskell of New York, accompanied by Miss M. R. Haskell, his daughter, and Miss Constance Chappell of New York, who is visiting her, took the same ride.

Mrs. Rawson Wood of New York is receiving congratulations over winning the final of the women's doubles, defeating Mrs. Earl Lodge and Mrs. Ernest Iselin, with Miss Marie L. Emmet of New York as a partner. Mrs. Wood may enter the Palm Beach tournament.

'BOMB' LOADED WITH TALCUM.
After Submersion the Charge Is Found to Be Scented Powder.

A suspicious looking package with a copper tube extending from it was found on the freight platform of the New York Central Railroad at West Thirty-third street yesterday morning. Arthur Barker, night watchman, saw it and told the police of the West Thirty-seventh street station he had a real life size bomb.

The police disarmed the package in a hall of water and left it there until Owen Egan arrived. He said it was a fragrant package of talcum powder.

Ten young dressmakers working for Mme. Pieret at 113 Lexington avenue were badly frightened yesterday when the postman left a package there containing a sample of an eradicator of corns.

SOCIETY WILL SEE THE RACES.

Many Will Go to Old Point Comfort for Jockey Club Meet.

OLD POINT COMFORT, Va., Nov. 8.—In the autumn meet of the Jamestown Jockey Club, which opens Thursday, November 13, its fifteen days racing season, the silks of Harry Payne Whitney will be represented along with many other notable stables. If the skies be fair, great crowds from New York, Philadelphia and Washington will be in attendance on the opening day, which is to be known as ladies' day.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Hill accompanied by F. Hill, Sr., of New York, arrived this week to spend some time at the Chamberlin.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Seward of New York came down this week from Washington with Mr. and Mrs. William McK. Barber for a brief visit.

Among the New Yorkers registered here this week are Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Broadman, Miss Helen Lee Smith, with Mrs. M. A. Scott, Archibald Palmer, Mr. and Mrs. Everett L. Crawford, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Woodruff Gray and Guy Van Amringe and Mr. and Mrs. F. McKoon of Elmhurst.

MANY POLITICIANS AT HOT SPRINGS TO REST

Ex-President Taft, Who Has Lost Flesh, Is Out on the Links Every Day.

HOT SPRINGS, Va., Nov. 8.—Many persons with political affiliations have been drifting this way since the fall elections. Besides a large number of society people have come down. Fine fall weather has set in and it is much superior to that of last month.

Ex-President and Mrs. Taft arrived at the Homestead on Wednesday and took a suite for the rest of November. Mr. Taft greeted many former associates, including Frank B. Kellogg, "trust buster" under the last Administration, and George R. Sheldon. He has been out on the golf links daily.

W. F. Southard of New York ushered in the season of game dinners with one at Oak Grove in honor of Mrs. William Nelson Belouze of Chicago. There have been plenty of birds to shoot. Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Phelps after a day's shooting had their own game for dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Melville E. Ingalls, Jr., have been putting in much time in the saddle, taking frequent rides over Coles Mountain. J. Amory Haskell of New York, accompanied by Miss M. R. Haskell, his daughter, and Miss Constance Chappell of New York, who is visiting her, took the same ride.

Mrs. Rawson Wood of New York is receiving congratulations over winning the final of the women's doubles, defeating Mrs. Earl Lodge and Mrs. Ernest Iselin, with Miss Marie L. Emmet of New York as a partner. Mrs. Wood may enter the Palm Beach tournament.

NOTABLES AT BRITONS' DINNER.
Hundred at Annual Feast of Schools and Universities Club.

The British Schools and Universities Club of New York held its annual dinner at Delmonico's last night. About a hundred men were present. The president of the club, the Right Rev. Dr. P. Courtney, former Bishop of Halifax, presided.

The speakers were William Remick Riddell, Justice of the Supreme Court of Ontario, Lord Charles E. Woodruff, U. S. A. Medical Corps, retired, and Joseph H. Choate.

Others at the speakers' table were Prof. Jean Martin of the University of New York, Prof. J. H. Bastedo, former President of the Pilgrims Society; Walter L. McCorkle, president of the Southern Society; H. W. J. Bucknill, president of the St. George's Society; George Austin Morrison, president of the St. Andrew's Society; and Col. W. M. Griffith, president of the St. David's Society.

MELLEN PUTS BLAME ON BOSTON BANKERS

Says He Had No Authority as to the New Haven's Financial Policy.

HIS HANDS ALWAYS TIED

Looks for Government Ownership of Railroads Before Many Years.

Boston, Nov. 9.—The Boston Post this morning prints a copyrighted interview with Charles S. Mellen, ex-president of the New Haven, in which he tells his side of the financial management of the road during his ten years of service.

"Practically all the turmoil that has surrounded every move made by the New Haven in the last ten years has been stirred up by Boston bankers who were desirous of controlling the New England trolley field," said Mr. Mellen.

"The New Haven long before I took charge had been in the trolley business because the electrical lines are natural feeders of traffic to the main road. These Boston bankers, through their Stone and Webster organization, have gone into the electric light, power and transportation business in all parts of the country, and they were determined that no other organization should have any part of the New England trolleys."

"They fought us tooth and nail. They raised the cry of monopoly against the New Haven, although at the same time they were trying to monopolize the field for themselves."

"But at best I was simply the operating head of the road. The fight was between the banking interests, between New York on one side and Boston on the other."

"I had no more to do with the financial policy of the New Haven than I had to do with the editorial policy of the Boston Post."

"The railroads will all go under Government ownership. It is coming quickly. Five years ago I felt that I would not live to see it. But now I think that I will."

"Just to show you how much I had to do with the financing of the road, I will tell you of a little incident that happened a few years ago. I was travelling on the road one day when I happened to meet a representative of one of Boston's biggest banking houses. As a note issue was being contemplated by the New Haven, I talked with this man about the price of money and what rate of interest we should probably have to pay on the notes."

"A day or two later I was hauled up on the carpet by representatives of our fiscal agency and told in effect to mind my own business. When the New Haven wants money we will furnish it, they said, and we don't need advice."

"Representatives of our fiscal agency made the necessary arrangements. My position was to be filled by Mr. Elliott. I knew this in February from friends in St. Paul. My own crowd was working behind my back."

"For ten years I have allowed myself to be misrepresented to the public. I know that my hands were clean and that my conscience was clear. I knew that the men who were calculating me were doing so for selfish ends and that in the end all would come out in the true light. I held to my position in the road because I was not afraid of a fight so long as I had the approval and backing of my directors."

"But when those men went back on me—left me alone to bear the indictment which did not belong to me—and then schemed behind my back to sacrifice me so as to calm the public, I made up my mind that the facts should be known. I would have left the New Haven long ago, but I could not get out under fire."

"I believe that the paying of tremendous salaries to corporation officials is a waste of money. I believe that no man in the country is worth more than $25,000 per year. And I know that it was paid fully as hard for the New Haven Railroad for $25,000 as I did for $50,000 or $75,000."

Speaking of the steamship end of the business, Mr. Mellen said: "If my advice had been followed we would have sold the steamship lines five years before the Government ordered us to sell out."

Naval Institute Publications.
At the regular monthly meeting of the board of control of the United States Naval Institute on last Tuesday evening it was decided that the publication Proceedings of the United States Naval Institute would be published bi-monthly in 1914 instead of quarterly, as heretofore.

SAYS DONALD M'LEAN KEEPS HER FORTUNE

Widow Sues Lawyer When Income Drops From $5,000 a Year to Nothing.

Donal McLean, the lawyer, whose wife is a former president-general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, was directed yesterday by Surrogate Fowler to show cause on November 15 why he should not turn over to the court for safekeeping $10,443, which he holds as executor under the will of Henry Huber, who died in 1893.

The Surrogate acted on a petition by Mrs. Amelia Huber of 4110 Carpenter avenue, The Bronx, widow of Henry Huber, who said that under the will of her husband she was to get all the income from his estate up to $4,000 a year, payable quarterly. Mrs. Huber says she is over 60 years of age and has no other means except the income from her husband's estate, from which she has received no money for the past few months. She has had to appeal to relatives and friends for support.

Mrs. Huber says that Adam Nidlinger, now dead, was named as a trustee with Mr. McLean, but she understands that Mr. McLean has always had full charge of the estate. The will provided that the principal was to be kept intact, she says, and for the first few years she got $100 a week, then $50, then $20 a week, and finally nothing.

She says that she was compelled to sue McLean and that he died an accounting in July showing that he had received $20,500 and had $10,443 remaining. Mrs. Huber also alleges that she bought a house in The Bronx several years ago and that Mr. McLean attended to the legal business and promised to pay the taxes from the income of her husband's estate. She learned last summer that $1,700 of taxes were unpaid and that the city was about to sell the property to collect. She said she "has not the heart to inquire whether the sale actually took place."

The widow alleges finally that the terms of the executor over a long period of years leads her to believe that he has misappropriated the funds of the estate, and if such is the fact, she is left without any means of support.
